The Law Firm of Andrea Hence Evans, LLC

Andrea Evans, Esq.

A company's intellectual property - be it a patent, trademark, formula, trade secret or creative work - may be as or more valuable than its physical assets. Prosecution of patents, trademarks and copyrights is Andrea Hence Evans' specialty. Since 2007, Evans and her law firm, The Law Firm of Andrea Hence Evans, LLC have advised and guided independent inventors; entrepreneurs; government agencies; small, medium and Fortune 100 businesses; and a range of international clients interested in protecting their knowledge-based assets.

Evans' unique combination of education, legal skills, and hands-on experience pays dividends to clients. She has worked as both a Patent Examiner and Trademark Examining Attorney for the United States Patent and Trademark Office (USPTO). The knowledge gleaned during her tenure is put to work on a daily basis, assisting clients in obtaining and protecting patents, trademarks and copyrights.

Value is the hallmark of The Law Firm of Andrea Hence Evans, LLC. "After hearing heart wrenching stories from inventors and entrepreneurs who were taken advantage of - paying high rates for less than high-quality work - I felt I had something to offer the community," she says. "My clients are extremely satisfied and know that every dollar spent protecting their intellectual property is an investment in their business. My Firm is efficient and we provide high quality work at reasonable rates."

A member of the Texas bar, USPTO Patent Bar, and United States Supreme Court bar, Evans has been recognized for her efforts on behalf of clients. She is a recipient of the 2011 Nation's Best Advocate of the Year award and the Nation's Best Advocates: 40 Lawyers Under 40! award from the National Bar Association and IMPACT.

An active member of the local community, Evans has developed a science, technology, engineering and mathematics (STEM) program, known as KidGINEER, LLC, for students in kindergarten through fifth grade. "I enjoy giving back to the community and making a difference in the lives of others. It is extremely rewarding to expose children ages five through 10 to engineering at a young age," she says. Evans, who holds undergraduate degrees in both math and civil engineering from Spelman College and Georgia Institute of Technology, respectively. She is passionate about keeping young children engaged in and enthusiastic about STEM. A new exhibit at the Maryland Women's Heritage Center showcases Evans' work with KidGINEER, LLC.

Invest in Your Idea® is not just the Firm's registered trademark but the philosophy that guides The Law Firm of Andrea Hence Evans, LLC. "Don't let the opportunity to patent, trademark or copyright your intellectual property pass you by," says Evans. "It's better to be proactive and protect your idea today than to be reactive tomorrow after someone has taken your idea."
